A-Check America Launches A-Check Direct 3.0
New Technology saves clients time and money

A-Check America, Inc., a leading U.S. provider of employment screening services, today announced the release A-Check Direct 3.0, the latest version of its widely adopted web-based employment screening platform.

Company representatives said the new A-Check Direct 3.0 will trim employers' hiring costs by reducing the amount of time and resources spent on ineligible job applicants and speed up the overall background screening process for eligible candidates.

"The new system makes the background check and drug testing process easier, faster and less costly," said A-Check President Carlos Lacambra. "We set out to leverage our technical and industry expertise to provide maximum benefits for employers and solidly affirm A-Check's position as a technology leader in the employment screening industry. We have achieved that goal with A-Check Direct 3.0."

A-Check Direct 3.0 is a ground-up retooling of A-Check's client-forward systems and supporting back-end data systems. It represents the culmination of a year-long development effort to provide clients the best employment screening technology available. No other employment screening company's portal come close in breadth of features and convenience, the company said.

The advanced concepts behind A-Check Direct 3.0 came to life through careful study of employers' needs, as related to background and drug screening, and the development and refinement of electronic processes to efficiently serve those needs, the company said.

"We listened to our clients and worked to eliminate their pain points," said Director of Operations Kathi Parlapiano. "Clients expect us to help them control background screening costs without compromising quality or compliance. A-Check Direct 3.0 delivers on that promise."

The newest release of A-Check's flagship employment screening portal was released after extensive testing that included all stakeholders, including a select group of clients who volunteered to be first in line to try it out.

"A-Check Direct 3.0 worked better than any other background screening portal I have tried," said one of A-Check's Beta Testing clients, "The features are great, the layout is user friendly and the reports are super clean. A-Check did a fantastic job on this."

"We built a modern dashboard-type interface that intelligently displays relevant information, and provides one-click access to details," said Jayant Narang, New Product Development Manager. "The new A-Check Direct incorporates many useful features not available from any of our competitors, including the cost-savings of Progressive Ordering."

Progressive Ordering means as clients enter basic applicant information, the system begins working in the background to immediately identify red flags before moving on to more resource-consuming services like employment and education verifications.

"A-Check Direct 3.0 runs circles around any of our competitors offerings and I challenge any of them to prove me wrong," Lacambra said. "We focused on creating the best employment screening platform, now we want to share it with the world. A-Check Direct 3.0 is truly in a class by itself."

In addition to its cost-saving benefits, the New A-Check Direct 3.0 seamlessly accommodates international screening requests, generates more than 40 dynamic management reports and incorporates smart navigation technology.
